MoneyMinding Network Launch Timely Answer to Current Financial Crisis

Victoria BC – MoneyMinding Inc. announced today the launch of its live and online networking component, The MoneyMinding Network. Designed for both financial industry professionals, and the clients who work with them, it features both educational evenings and a 24/7 on-line resource of timely financial tips, strategies and support.

“I see the MoneyMinding Network as a vital resource in today’s financial climate, where uncertainty and confusion are overshadowing people’s ability to make good financial decisions”, says Tracy Piercy, CFP, MoneyMinding’s founder.

“Networking organizations for business development, community service or simply shared interests have been around forever,” continues Piercy “We are doing something new with networking by integrating day-by-day financial education, unconnected to financial product sales. It’s simply about helping people get better results from their personal finances by asking the right questions and making the right contacts.”

One example of the MoneyMinding Network in action is the Mix ‘n’ Mingle, started earlier this year to offer both education and local networking. Each Mix ‘n’ Mingle has drawn close to 100 people who gather to listen to some of Victoria’s most knowledgeable financial and property experts.

MoneyMinding was developed by Tracy Piercy, a Certified Financial Planner professional, to teach financial education that explores opportunities “without sacrifice or cutting back”. Since its inception over 3 years ago, MoneyMinding has grown to serve thousands of people across Canada, the USA and around the world. MoneyMinding also supports its sister organization, The MoneyMinding Foundation, a non-profit dedicated to promoting financial literacy to people who otherwise could not afford it.
